T.B. QUESTIONS and ANSWERS

Q. At times I have severe tightness of the left lung, upon stooping. What causes this? I am receiving pneumothorax treatment.

A. The pressure within the pleural cavity changes with changing position, and as you stoop you may have your pressure increased sufficiently for you to become conscious of it.

Q. Would you advise anyone, while taking pneumothorax, to do any kind of manual labor?

A. Yes. People with pneumothorax have been known to perform severe physical labor. Whether or not anyone can do so cannot be determined except by a physician thoroughly familiar with all the facts relating to the patient and his disease and the labor.

Bag Limit Cut on All Game Birds

Drastically reduced bag limits and shooting seasons on migratory game birds, such as ducks and geese and a two-week season on cock pheasants confined to a small area of Southern Alberta were announced Wednesday, to be effective this fall.

There will be no shooting season this year on upland game birds, such as the prairie chicken, Hungarian or bush partridge, anywhere in the province.

The shooting season on migratory birds, ducks, geese, rails, coots and Wilson snipes, will extend over the same period throughout the entire province: one-half hour before sunrise Sept. 20 until one-half hour after sunset Nov. 11.

This is the shortest migratory game season in the province for many years.

The bag limits on the migratory birds will be: geese, five per day, 20 per season; ducks, seven per day, 56 per season; rails and coots, 10 a day and 80 per season; Wilson snipe, five per day and 56 per season.

The new regulations provide that no one have in his possession at any time more than 15 geese, 14 ducks, 40 rails and coots and 20 Wilson snipe.

The shooting season on cock pheasants will be restricted to a comparatively small area in southern Alberta and will not include the Calgary district for a period from 10:30 a.m. Oct. 18 until one hour after sunset Nov. 1. The cock pheasant bag limit will be three per day and 18 for the season.

As usual, there will be no shooting allowed on Sundays. Shooting of hen pheasants will be banned.

Set Fees Schedule

The small area in southern Alberta where cock pheasant hunting is roughly south of the Red Deer River between Drumheller and the Saskatchewan border and an area south of the Highwood river. Shooting of cock pheasants will be allowed only after 10:30 a.m. of the season in this sector.

Big game license fee for residents will be $5 and that for game bird license will be $5 and a non-resident of Canada license, $25. Residents of Manitoba and Saskatchewan who hold licences in their provinces will be able to obtain Alberta licenses for the basic $2.50 fee.

Special schedule of fees has been drafted for outfitters, guides and others connected with the game business. Non-resident big game license will be $50 and that for non-resident hunting in certain restricted areas $25. Royalties of $25 will be levied on many big game animals.

The Sports Day of Wednesday, August 15th, held under the sponsorship of the Irma Curling Club and the Irma Senior Hockey Club, was a decided success although kept attendance down somewhat.

CURRENT EVENTS

Some new stickers being put into circulation bear the legend "Fifty-seven Nations Bid War Cease, Now True Patriots Work for Peace." Some military leaders in the late war declare World War III is inevitable. Dorothy Thompson has issued a heartfelt call for women to work individually and unitedly to overcome the conditions from which war develops. A recent world convention has broadcasted the statement that if defense military preparations would insure peace the countries of Europe should have been the most peaceful spots imaginable on earth just before the last world war. To what conclusions do these matters bring us?

Rev. Thompson, secretary of the Associated Temperance Forces of Alberta, assures me he will be along here at an early date with talks to illustrate the character of beverage alcohol, that builds such strong intrenchments against health, prosperity and morals.

These are founded on science. They form the basis of many of the projects in the scientific temperance contest of the W.C.T.U., which opens early in the school year.

In merciful kindness we try to give children real knowledge in a pleasant way. One of our slogans is "Alcohol is indispensable for at least six hundred uses." It is not fair to let children grow up under present day conditions without definite information re the harmful effects of beverage alcohol. There is plenty of pressure brought to bear from the other side of the question—pressure that comes from current magazines carrying the so-called "good-will" advertisements filled with dangerously insidious propaganda from some of the popular fiction of today—from language on the street—from too much silence of the church on this vital matter.

Will you come to WCTU meeting Thursday afternoon, August 28, to discuss these timely topics?

Farewell Gathering For Mrs. Fletcher

A good number of ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. H. L. Black on the afternoon of Tuesday, August 19th in honor of Mrs. Fletcher, who is leaving to make her home in Edmonton. A friendly afternoon was spent and some contests arranged by Miss V. Simmermon. Mrs. R. L. Rohrer and Mrs. Black were greatly enjoyed. At the close a lovely lunch was served. Then the guest of honor received two presentations. Mrs. Long, on behalf of the Ladies' Choir, spoke of Mrs. Fletcher's able and willing work with that organization. The Choir's gift to Mrs. Fletcher was a very pretty blue pottery vase. Mrs. Fletcher thanked the choir and expressed the pleasure she had found in choir associations. Mrs. Tripp then presented Mrs. Fletcher with a lovely bird statuette. This gift was from the Ladies Aid in appreciation of the many services rendered so cheerfully during the years in which Mrs. Fletcher had worked with the Aid. HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS—NURSING CALLS YOU

With the publication of High School examination results, students are deciding their future career. Nursing is a profession that is interesting, varied and full of opportunity. Nurses are well paid and are most greatly needed in hospitals in Alberta are almost desperate for graduate registered nurses. The proposed health insurance developments throughout Canada insure an abundance of employment after graduation. The entire employment outlook for nurses is very bright and the opportunity to serve others unlimited.

There are 11 hospitals in Alberta that have Schools of Nursing. In order to be admitted as a student nurse you must meet certain educational requirements. Specific information regarding an individual hospital must be obtained from the Superintendent of Nurses of that hospital.

All High School Principals, High School Inspectors and District Public Health Nurses have been provided with a new general information pamphlet, called "Nursing a Profession" by the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, and additional copies are available.

There are two sets of MINIMUM education requirements for admission to a School of Nursing. Students must have EITHER one of the following:

1. An Alberta High School Graduation Diploma, with not less than 100 credits including English 3; Social Studies 3; Chemistry 2; and either Physics 2 or Biology—or an equivalent educational standing elsewhere.

OR

2. 67 High-School credits, under the regulations of the Alberta Department of Education, which shall include "B" standing or higher in English 1 and 2; one foreign language 1 and 2; Social Studies 1 and 2; Geometry 1; Algebra 1; Health 1 and Physical Education 1; Chemistry 1; Physics 1 or Biology 1, or an equivalent standing elsewhere.

Students interested in nursing, but who need financial assistance can apply for a Dominion-Provincial Student-Aid Grant of $100.00, through the Alberta Association of Registered Nurses, St. Stephen's College, Edmonton.

A Benefit To Agriculture

THE WORK OF THE United Nations Organization is overshadowed a great deal of the time by spectacular news from all over the world, but although it does not always occupy public attention it is interesting to know that work is going steadily forward to accomplish the purposes laid down when the organization was formed. Of particular interest to the people here is the activity of the Food and Agriculture Organization since much of its work is connected with the improvement of methods of farming, the more efficient distribution of agricultural products and other related matters. Of wide interest to people in the West was the recent appointment of Dr. L. Kirk, dean of agriculture at the University of Saskatchewan, as head of the plant industry branch of the agricultural division of the F.A.O.

Hopes To Raise Living Levels

The main objective of the Food and Agriculture Organization is to raise the standard of living in countries where the population lives for the most part at starvation level, and to help them to improve and increase their food production. One of the problems to be dealt with under Dr. Kirk's direction will be concerned with the preservation and storage of food. It is estimated that over one-half of the food which is put on the market is lost because of poor storage facilities. If this loss could be overcome it would be a big factor in increasing the world food supply. Dr. Kirk will also deal with problems of pests and insect plagues, such as grasshoppers, which may attack crops to the extent of seriously affecting the production of important foods.

Will Attempt Pest Control

Another important branch of Dr. Kirk's work will be concerned with the creation of a central source which will give out information concerning valuable genetic stocks of animals and plants throughout the world. Means will also be sought of ensuring that such stock will be preserved and be always available to farmers of any country associated in the U.N.O. In carrying out such work Dr. Kirk will be performing a valuable service to agriculture throughout the world, and it is gratifying to know that an official of one of our Western Canadian universities was selected for this important position.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

We still think the prize comment about the power of atomic energy goes to the wide-eyed girl who exclaimed: "Gee they ought to be careful what they do with that stuff. It's dynamite!"

The prodigal son had returned. "Father," he inquired, "are you going to kill the fattest calf?" "No," answered the old man, looking the youth over carefully. "No, I'll let you live. But I'll put you to work and train a lot of that fat off."

"Sure, the last price of the dinner is $2," said the waiter blandly to the new-car salesman, "but the flowers on the table bring it to $3.75."

A woman was shopping for Father's Day. She thought shaving soap would be nice, and mentioned it to a clerk. "Do you want it for a mug?" he asked. "Well, yes," she answered, "but I never refer to him in that way."

Gloria: "Was your uncle's mind vigorous and sane to the last?" Harold: "I don't know. The will won't be read until tomorrow."

"Here, Auntie," said the returned soldier, "is a franc I brought you from Paris as a souvenir." "Thank you," said the dear old lady, "but I wish you would have brought me one of those Latin quarters I read so much about."

Government Examiner — "How did you come to mark this man's paper 101 per cent? Don't you know that nothing can be more perfect than 100 per cent?" New Assistant — "Yes, but this man answered one question we didn't ask."

Voice from rear seat of taxi — "I say, driver, what's the idea of stopping?" Driver — "I thought I heard somebody tell me to stop." Rear Seat — "Drive on, buddy! She's been talking to you."

The Mrs. — "Mary, we have breakfast promptly at 8 o'clock." New maid: "All right, mum, but if I ain't down don't wait for me."

Willie: "Can't you give me another name, mother?" Mother: "Why?" "My teacher is always saying she will keep me after school as sure as my name is Willie."

"So you met your wife at a dance; wasn't that romantic?" "No, it was embarrassing. I thought she was home minding the kids!"

The priest called on an elderly Irish woman. "And how are you today, Bridget?" asked he. "I'm had enough, father," she replied. "I've the pain in me arms and the pain in me legs. And I've only two teeth in the whole of me head; but, thanks to God, they're opposite."

"And now, children," said the teacher, "who can give me the plural of forget-me-not?" "I can," said Johnny. "It's forget-us-not."

Hotel bell boy: "Telegram for Mr. Neidspondiavani! Mr. Neidspondiavani! Telegram for Mr. Neidspondiavani!" "Man sitting in the lobby." "What is the initial, please?"

The first watch was really a portable clock hung from the girde by a chain or cord.

The Danger Of Lightning

Golfing, Swimming and Seeking Shelter Under Trees During Storms Should Be Avoided

A golf caddy was recently killed by lightning because his group of enthusiasts insisted on playing during a thunderstorm. This is an example of the silly things people do which add to the death toll from lightning.

Nine out of 10 fatalities from lightning occur in rural areas, according to a survey of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. City dwellers are relatively safe, partly because the steel structures of tall buildings act as lightning conductors.

People in the country are more likely to be caught some distance from a safe shelter and are more likely to be targets for the electrical discharge, particularly if they are on a broad field. Safest place in rural areas during a storm is a building well equipped with lightning rods.

The metal bodies of automobiles protect the occupants, even if the car is struck by lightning. Many city people spend the summer in the country, which is the worst season for storm victims, and consequently should take the precautions which rural residents have to keep in mind all year round.

Many lives are lost because of dangerous actions of persons caught in thunderstorms. Trees, particularly isolated ones, because of their height, are more likely to be struck than persons. That is why a good many are killed or badly injured when they seek shelter under a lone tree.

The practice of taking refuge in small sheds, especially in exposed areas, is dangerous. These structures are a more likely target than individuals out in the open. Ironically enough a number of those killed were standing under trees or sheltered in sheds.

Other victims tempted fate in a variety of ways. Some, caught in storms while engaged in water sports, continued to swim or to row in small boats. People in small boats are conspicuous targets. Swimmers are in danger not only from being struck directly, but also of being electrocuted by a charge carried by the water from a bolt striking some distance away—Ottawa Citizen.

One man was killed while seeking shelter in a small ticket booth on a baseball field. A youngster camping in a public park lost his life while holding on to the pole of his small tent, trying to keep the tent from being blown down. The tent pole was capped with metal.

Other victims tempted fate in a variety of ways. Some, caught in storms while engaged in water sports, continued to swim or to row in small boats. People in small boats are conspicuous targets. Swimmers are in danger not only from being struck directly, but also of being electrocuted by a charge carried by the water from a bolt striking some distance away—Ottawa Citizen.

New Canadian-Invented Radar Device Best In World

OTTAWA—Canada's national research council has developed a radar distance-reading meter which "very convincingly outperformed" foreign devices in open competition, it was disclosed in the NRC report tabled in the Commons.

The mechanism allows an aircraft or marine pilot to read off his distance in miles from a pre-determined ground point. Previously, radar operators had to compute their distance from various information given by the radar equipment. The new meter gives the mileage directly.

May Pay Back Compulsory Savings By 1949

OTTAWA — Canadian taxpayers who have been looking forward to getting back from the Government $261,000,000 worth of wartime "compulsory savings," may get their money sooner than they expected—in two years instead of three.

As it stands, the Government owes the following amounts. $261,000,000 to personal income taxpayers. $250,166,000 to excess profits taxpayers.

Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance, during discussion of his departmental estimates in the House of Commons, said he would make no promises, but he could see advantages in paying back all that was owed in two payments instead of three, as was originally provided. This would mean that the debt would be paid by 1949 instead of 1950.

The Government, he said, would consider this idea. For personal income taxpayers, the money they have owing to them ranges from less than one dollar to several hundred dollars, and the present plan is that the first instalment, amounting to $58,000,000 will be paid back by cheque before March 31, 1949.

The second payment, amounting to $135,000,000, is due before March 31, 1949, and the third payment of $72,000,000 must be paid before March 31, 1950.

These three payments will be for "compulsory savings" chargeable to 1942, 1943, and 1944, which was the last year that this enforced savings system was in effect. One of the main administrative problems, Mr. Abbott said, was that in the first planned repayment alone there were some 15,000 cheques for amounts of less than one dollar.

How To Remove FRUIT STAINS

Summer fruits bring enjoyment but they also bring worries if we have the misfortune of getting their juices on our clothes—and most of us do at some time or other. However there are exceptions to this, as to most rules.

The exceptions are fresh peach, pear, cherry or plum stains which contain enough tannin to be darkened and set by heat. On stains made by these four fruits use cool water and glycerine or a soapless shampoo. (Never use soap because it sets the stain.) First, sponge the stain with cool water. Then work a little glycerine or soapless shampoo into the stain rubbing lightly between the hands. Let stand several hours, then apply a few drops of vinegar and allow to remain a minute or two before rinsing thoroughly with water.

This same method is recommended for fruit stains on wool or silk. On these fabrics boiling water should never be used, because it may injure the fabric.

Cool water and glycerine are also recommended for stains made by tomato juice and catsup.

British Total Army Strength At 108,000

LONDON.—Britain's regular army has increased by 9,000 men since last December, John Freeman, financial secretary to the War Office, told the House of Commons.

Voluntary recruitment had been at a rate of about 3,600 in April and 3,400 in May. Total strength now is 108,000, he said.

CASHER REFUSED TO BELIEVE BANDIT

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—"This is a holdup," said a gruff voice outside the movie ticket window. "Are you kidding?" laughed Wanda June Phillips, the cashier in front of the gun's muzzle. "Move on, you're holding up the line."

The would-be bandit fled, but the next man in line pursued, collared him and called the police.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

GOOD COMPANY

By GEORGE GRAHAM

"Well, Joe, I'm going on my vacation next week, and I want you boys to stay on your good behavior while I'm away," said Sergeant Stevens with a good natured grin. He was a large, heavy set, genial man, head of the guards at the County Prison. All of the prisoners liked and respected Sergeant Stevens, for he was lenient and honest with them. He trusted them and treated them well, but was serious and completely conscientious about his job.

"Have a good time, sarge," said Joe Walsh, a trusty with six months time standing between himself and freedom. "What are you going to do with yourself?"

"I think I'll take a motor trip around the state," Sergeant Stevens said. "Like to see more of the country, after being copped up here with the rest of you boys all year."

"Sounds like a great idea," Joe said.

"Yeah!" answered the sergeant with a sad smile. "I'm only sorry I can't take you and some of the boys along. You make good company. Oh, well! Next year you should be out. Maybe we'll get together then."

"Sure, Sarge," Joe murmured. "Enjoy yourself."

When the sergeant left himself out of the cell block, Joe sat thinking, ignoring the other prisoners. He had never thought of escaping the prison, while Sergeant Stevens was in charge and responsible for the men, but now Joe began to yearn for his freedom.

Three days after the sergeant left on vacation, Joe was assigned to the bean picking crew at the prison farm. That afternoon, while the guards made their rounds lazily in the hot sun, he climbed the fence and cut quickly through the woods. At the first town he passed, some quick thinking and acting rewarded him with a denim shirt, coveralls, a threadbare overcoat and a peak cap which had been hanging on the clothes line of one of the housewives.

After a change he looked like one of the farmers or workmen. He breathed deeply of the warm breeze, as he walked down the wide street in the town, feeling free once again.

That evening he crawled into an empty coal car on a north-bound freight. As he watched the scenery fly swiftly by the open door, he felt the wind in his face he sang a happy song. In a few days he would be several states away from the County Prison. While humming, "Brakes, steering mechanism, lights, and tires especially should be checked regularly."

"Hey you, hobo. C'mon, wake up." A voice, harsh and gruff, tapping his shoulder awakened him more completely. He sat up slowly, blinking and yawned, and saw that the sun was shining brightly in the door of the freight car. The train had stopped on a siding, and outside was a pasture overgrown with weeds.

"What's the matter," Joe asked, trying to collect his wits. He looked up at the large man and noticed the holster gun on his hip.

"I'm a railroad detective," the man said. "Get up. I'm going to take you down to the hoosegow. You know you're not allowed to ride the freights."

Joe's nerves jumped with nervous jitters, and he fought to keep his teeth from rattling. By now they would have heard of his escape at the local jail.

He pleaded with the detective in his most heart melting voice, begging to be given another chance, swearing he didn't know that he wasn't allowed to ride on the freight trains.

The detective tapped his gun significantly. "I hear that same story from every hobo we pick up," he said. "Now come along without any trouble."

Joe wearily stretched and stood up, while pictures of returning to the jail cell flowed through his mind. Each time he thought of the confinement, he added fresh and convincing pleas to those already submitted to the detective.

When he had given up all hope and made up his mind that he was hopelessly headed back to County Prison, the man softened. "I guess you're having a pretty hard time of it, traveling around the country this way. I'll let you off this time, but after this stay away from the trains."

"Gosh! Thanks, mister," said Joe gratefully, almost crying with relief. "You don't know how much this means to me. I'll stick to the highway after this." He heaved a deep, heartfelt sigh, and almost ran the short distance to the highway for fear that the detective might change his mind.

The walk made him hungry, and as he realized how long it had been since his last meal he almost wished he was back at the prison, where the boys would be eating breakfast. "Oh well!" he thought. "Pretty soon I'll be far enough away that I can stop and find some food." His thumb slipped at the passing cars, and finally a sedan slowed down and pulled to the side of the road.

Joe opened the door quickly. "Going my way," he asked and relaxed in the comfortable seat.

"Sure, always glad to have good company," said the driver in a voice that seemed familiar to Joe.

"Thanks a lot," Joe said, but as he looked at the man, the smile faded suddenly from his face. He gulped and added sheepishly, "...Sarge!"

Timely Advice

For The Motorist

Driving a car can be a pleasure or a tiresome ordeal. It depends on how you drive.

If you make it a habit to keep your mind on your driving, to keep your car under control, and to observe traffic rules, you'll get a lot more enjoyment from your motoring. You'll get places just as fast as other motorists, and have a better chance of avoiding accidents.

Make it a habit, too, to keep your car in good running condition. Brakes, steering mechanism, lights, and tires especially should be checked regularly.

Night Driving
Driving after dark requires special care, for you can't see as far ahead as in the daytime.

Suppose your headlights suddenly show a barrier 150 feet ahead on the road, and you're driving 50 miles an hour—you're outdiving your headlights, for at that speed you can't stop in less than 186 feet.

Try to avoid looking directly at approaching headlights. Look up at the lights for oncoming cars, don't take the chance that a "light-blind" motorist will run into you. Watch your side of the road for pedestrians or parked cars.

To Stop In Time
Chances are you can't stop as quickly as you think you can.

Traveling at only 20 miles an hour, your car will go at least 22 feet while you move your foot from the accelerator to the brake. Under the best conditions, it will take another 21 feet—or a total of 43 feet—before you can stop.

This stopping distance increases with your speed. At 40 miles an hour it is 128 feet; and at 60 miles an hour you'll travel 254 feet before you can stop. The U.S. National Safety Council is the authority for these figures.

To Avoid Accidents
It's only common sense to adjust your driving to suit adverse weather and road conditions.

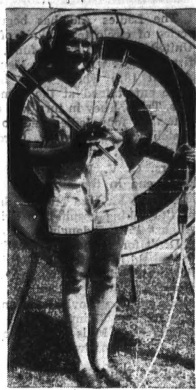

Be prepared for emergencies such as blowouts or sudden skids, and know what to do when they occur. Keep alert for the actions of other drivers or pedestrians.

And remember—a survey reported by the U.S. National Safety Council shows that drivers who have been drinking are 3 to 4 times as likely to be involved in an accident as those who haven't.

Smart Idea!

ROMANCE, Suck!—When her chickens break out of their wire enclosure to invade the neighbors' gardens, Mrs. George Pitts, Romance postmistress, does not dash out after them, but standing on the back porch of her home she lets go with a few eerie hawk cries. The gullible chickens come home on the double.

Beware of letting acid foods, such as tomatoes, lemons and vinegar, touch the porcelain enamel on the outside of your range or refrigerator unless the finish is acid-resistant. These foods will leave a stain that won't come off.

C.N.E. BOUND—International archery championships at the Canadian National Exhibition are expected to attract at least 100 competitors. Among them will be Anne Brooks, seen here, of St. Clement's school, Toronto. Many of the best junior archers of Canada and the U.S. will take part.

CITY AND FARM PEOPLE

Gap In Understanding

"What are you going to do this summer?" a retired farmer friend of ours asked the high school son of a friend of his, as he grasped the arm of a fine husky boy of 17.

"Well, I hoped to be a caddy at Jasper, but nothing doing. The trouble is I'm not 18 so I am trying to get a job in a broker's office."

"Why a broker's office? Why don't you take that good muscle to farm and make it even better, and at the same time help the farmer to produce food?" our friend asked.

"Well, Mom and Dad are afraid I wouldn't be properly fed and housed on a farm."

What ignorance! The good farm homes of Canada excel the best city homes in the quality of the food and in the excellence of the personal care given the household. Canadian city parents, who do not know that their sons would be improved vastly, physically and mentally, by a summer of outdoor work, fresh, superlatively-cooked foods, and sound sleep, are not aware of how best to complete the education of their children.

The greatest lack in the development of Canadian youth is the simple discipline of work with nature. Any Canadian city family that does not know personally a half-dozen fine farm families, in whose homes the food and personal care is equal to or better than in their own, should get out in the country and get acquainted. The growing gap in understanding between the farm and city people of Canada is the basic cause of the economic inequities which are resulting in an abnormal reduction in farm population, and the less-than-potential production of food in a world which food alone can save. — The Scene, From Shingwauk Farm.

Businessmen Discount Fears Of Depression

WASHINGTON.—Two United States business leaders discounted fears of a new inflationary spree, and told Congress that Americans have reason to look to the future with confidence.

Here is what they testified before the joint congressional committee on the economic report:

1. George M. Humphrey, Pittsburgh, head of the world's largest commercial coal company who helped negotiate the new contract with John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers: "The new coal wage contract will do more to stabilize the economy and retard inflation than settlement of any controversy in the industry in several years." He said he thinks it will not affect wages in other industries.

2. Earl Bunting, president of the National Association of Manufacturers:

"Prices are high, as compared to pre-war, but the increase has been less than the rise of wages during the last four months. The price level has definitely flattened out."

A third witness, Robert E. Wood, board chairman of Sears, Roebuck and Co., added this assuring view of the economic outlook:

"I have never believed that any depression was in store for us in 1947 and I doubt whether it will come in 1948."

Wood said the United States should stop most of its assistance to Europe "because Western Europe is to a large extent finished." He said no amount of money can restore its economy to its former condition.

CARE OF SHOES

Don't store leather shoes or leather or rubber overboots in a hot attic, as heat will rot rubber and weaken leather. Put them in a cool, dry place, and clean them thoroughly before storing. Mud left on shoes will make a permanent stain on the leather.
